Economic Growth

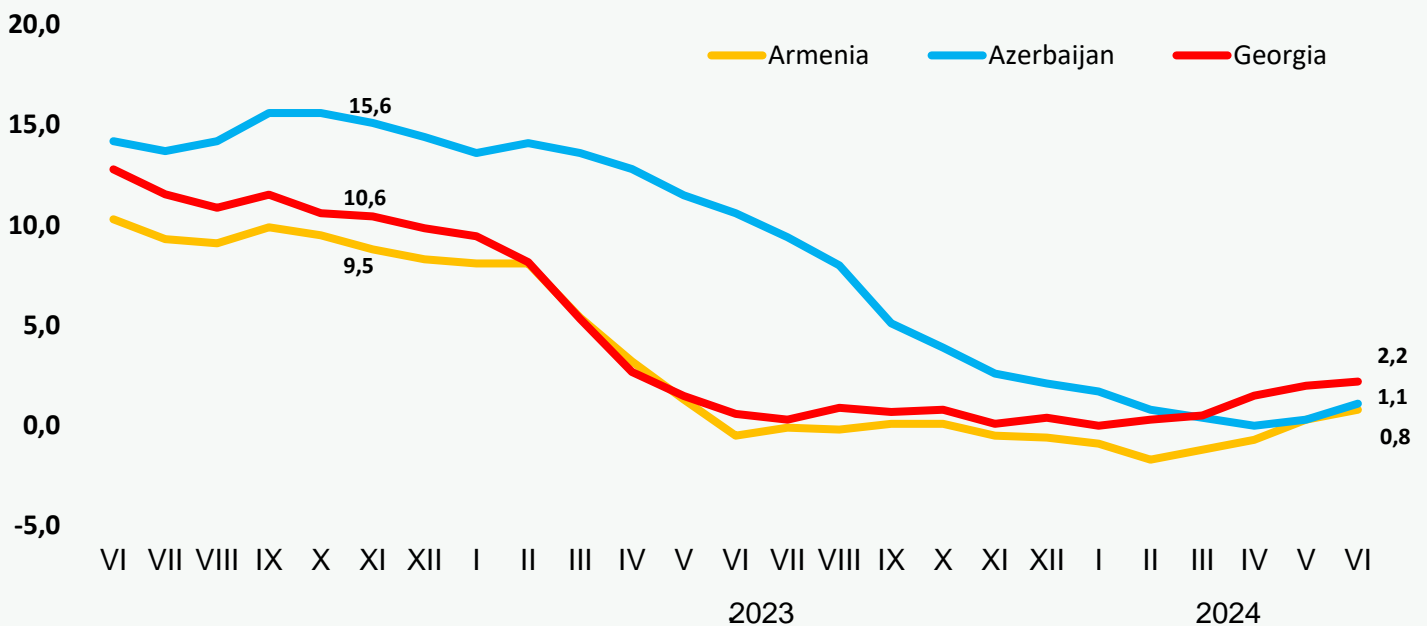

The economic growth in the Caucasus region was 4.4% in 2023, a decline from the 7.8% recorded in 2022. This shift can be attributed to two main factors: a decrease in the inflow of human and financial capital from Russia and a drop in oil prices compared to the previous year. In January-May of this year, the growth rate stood at 7.1%.

🇯🇵 The Georgian economy grew 7.5% last year and 9.3% in the first five months of this year. The telecommunications, financial activities, construction, and transport sectors significantly contributed to the growth.

🇦🇲 In the last year, Armenia's economy grew by 9.8%. In January-May of this year, compared to the same period of the previous year, the economy expanded by 11.2%. The trade sector is essential to the growth, increasing by 24.6% during this period, and the construction sector by 14.9%.

🇦🇿 The region's lowest growth rate was recorded in Azerbaijan. In 2023, Azerbaijan grew by 1.1%. In the first five months of this year, the growth rate amounted to 4.2%. 35.9% of the Azerbaijan economy is the oil and gas industry. Excluding the oil and gas industry, the growth rate was 7.3%.

Inflation and Monetary Policy

Inflation mostly repeats the trends of economic growth in the Caucasus region. Armenia has the best situation, and Georgia has relatively high inflation.

🇧🇪 Georgia's inflation trajectory took a positive turn last year, marked by a significant decrease compared to the previous year. In June 2024, the annual growth of the consumer prices index was a modest 2.2%. Despite a notable 11% increase in transport service prices, several sectors experienced price drops, with clothes prices decreasing by 3.8%. These developments prompted the Central Bank to leave the refinancing rate at 8%.

🇦🇲 Armenia's position in the region is different regarding price level changes. In June 2024, the annual growth in consumer prices was 0.8%. The highest increase, 10.8%, was recorded in the transport sector, while a 1.9% decrease in clothes prices was noted. The Central Bank of Armenia also made a significant move by starting to ease its monetary policy last year. The most recent decision saw the refinancing rate reduced to 8%.

🇦🇿 Inflation has stabilised in Azerbaijan. In June 2024, the consumer prices index growth amounted to 1.1%, compared to 0.3% in May. In previous periods, Azerbaijan was also distinguished by relatively high inflation in the region. Nevertheless, the Central Bank of Azerbaijan refrained from tightening the policy. The decision made in June stayed the policy rate at 7.25%.
